

YOUR BEST INTERESTS PROTECTED, TODAY AND TOMORROW.

Rob Frazer on doing what's best for clients:

I represent high-asset, educated, savvy individuals who want to protect what they have built over a lifetime and avoid destruction of business or personal assets in divorce. My clients include professionals, business owners, C-suite executives and their spouses. I work to explain the range of potential outcomes to help clients understand their options and choose the best course of action. My goal is to help clients and their children achieve the best possible results and take care of life's most important things.

Here's how:

- Focus on settlement with exceptional skill and perspective while leveraging and utilizing deep litigation and extensive courtroom experience when appropriate.
- Put clients at ease with a structured approach to the process and to making decisions—this relieves stress and helps clients see a positive path forward.
- Generate options and deliver guidance that empowers clients to make informed, rational and economically-sound decisions.
